About the society

The South Wessex Organ Society is a registered charity and the successor to the Lyme Reigs Organ School.

The Society has access to the beautiful Škrabl organ in St Michael's Church, Lyme Regis, a 50–rank three manual mechanical action instrument, as well as to many other fine organs in Dorset and Devon.

The Society's three main objectives are:

- To encourage musicians to take up organ playing and to nurture and encourage them in all aspects of their training
- To promote the appreciation of the organ and its part in the musical repertoire
- To assist those who use the organ liturgically or for secular entertainment

You do not need to be an organist to be a member but, if you like organ music and support society's aims, we are keen to enroll you.

We need your support to ensure our success. Join us: we guarantee a warm and appreciative welcome.
